

A GUIDE TO TRAINING FOR THE PUSH-UP CHALLENGE

This training program will help prepare your body for the push for better in June. Start at week one and build your way up, and just do part of the program if you have less than four weeks to train – your pecs will thank you for even a week of prep. Remember to train within your limits and seek help from a health professional if you need support.

PUSH-UP SELF-ASSESSMENT

The aim is to find the level of push-up at which you can complete 10 full repetitions successfully. You may need a friend to help check your technique. Start from the easiest level, attempting 10 repetitions. If you complete 10 repetitions successfully, attempt the next level. A successful repetition is having your elbows reach a 90 degree angle and then fully extending the elbows back to the straight position. Your spine and hips should be kept straight throughout.

THE PROGRAM

Each week, there will be a series of push-up exercises, as well as an “accessory” workout. The accessory workout is designed to help strengthen the muscles that you need to do push-ups, and these exercises will help to make push-ups feel easier.

WEEK 1 PUSH-UPS
Day 1	Day 2	Day 3
Push-up Max Test = Do as many push-ups (at your appropriate level) as you can with no rest.	5 sets of 50% of your max repetitions. E.g., If your max is 20 push-ups, then complete 5 sets of 10 repetitions. Rest 1 minute between sets.	Complete 3 sets of 75% max eg. if your max is 20, then complete 3 sets of 15 pushups.

ACCESSORY WORKOUT

Complete 3 sets of 30 second rounds of each exercise: triceps dips, commandos, dolphins, and cobras. Aim to do this 3 times throughout the week eg. 30 seconds of triceps dips, 30 seconds of commandos, 30 seconds of dolphins and 30 seconds of cobras. Once you have completed all those exercises, that is classed as 1 set.

Rest for 30 seconds between each exercise and 1 minute between sets.

WEEK 2 PUSH-UPS

4 sets of 75% max. Rest 90 seconds between sets.	6 sets of 20 seconds. Rest 20 seconds between sets.	5 sets of 75% max. Rest 90 seconds between sets.	Redo push-up self-assessment test.
